

Prime Movers: London's top 50 boutique estate agencies

Maskells

Maskells Estate Agents is delighted to have been included in Prime Resi's poll of London's Top 50 Boutique Estate Agents. We were even more delighted to have placed 6th. This is what they said:

"Those in any doubt as to the value of estate agents in their local community would do well to meet Walton Street-based Maskells' fiercely loyal following.

With a 50-year history, an inspired sales team led by Jamie Hope, and some of the most incisive market commentary around, courtesy of Principal and former financier Charles Curran, there's a palpable sense of pride in everything this firm does.

Nothing, it seems, is too much trouble for this team, with many clients praising the agency for "always going the extra mile"; that has meant literally in some cases - the firm recently agreed a let for a client in Northumberland, some 300 miles up the M1.

We're told all the senior staff are stakeholders in the business and everyone works on a pooled commission structure "to ensure the best interests of the client are always put first". Offering the full gamut of services, together with a clear understanding of what makes for first-class service, it's no wonder the instructions are flooding in."

If you would like to find out what sets us apart, please call Peter Hermon-Taylor or Jamie Hope.
